

CARE Weekly

Care Weekly – A new Open-Access Journal

Submit now to be featured at the launch during the 2017 EIT Health Summit!

The Journal Care Weekly will publish traditional articles for the rapid communication to a multidisciplinary research audience involving experimental, observational and qualitative methodologies.

In addition, the journal will publish on:

- the discovery of relevant care interventions and related therapeutic and technological development;
- nutrition, psychology and behavior;
- ratings, methods, procedures, analytical approaches;
- regulatory science;
- clinical research informatics;
- other translational areas as they relate to clinical care, outcomes, and health policy.

Care Weekly will enhance the translation and distribution of evidence-based literature, best practices, guidelines, and studies through the use of innovative web-based media. The aim is to increase audience engagement by developing interactive community-driven platform, uniting all key stakeholders engaged in the process of improving the health and wellbeing on the elderly across the globe.

The Journal will provide the first open access journal that will target a large multi-disciplinary audience as well as the general population. Articles published will be written in a language understood and spoken by non-scientists and will be diligently evaluated, with respect to content, through a peer-review process by the editors and the editorial advisory board.

EIT Health is supported by the EIT,
a body of the European Union

www.care-weekly.com/submit-online.html

Categories of Articles

Care Weekly publishes Original Papers, Reviews, Brief Reports, Editorials, Letters to the Editor, and Book Reviews.

- Authors of Review papers are encouraged to contact the Editor, Ara Khachaturian (ara_khachaturian@kra.net) with a pre-submission enquiry on their proposed topic and scope prior to submission.
- Brief Reports are research investigation or clinical experience reports whose findings are somewhat preliminary or a clinical study reporting on narrowly focused or limited findings.
- Description of complex clinical cases (with aspects of novelty and/or didactical purposes) may be presented in this format, too.
- Letters to the Editor should be brief commentaries on published articles in Care Weekly proposing alternative interpretations, different data, and/or things to ponder.

An overarching objective for published articles is to communicate knowledge so that all members of the care continuum (i.e. policy makers, elderly, formal and informal care givers, public sector, entrepreneurs, etc.) may share outcomes and new ideas that lead to innovative and cost-effective population-based interventions.

Authors are encouraged to submit their articles online at: www.care-weekly.com/submit-online.html

Editorial Board

Editor-in-Chief

Ara Khachaturian (Las Vegas, USA)

Associate Editors

Lefkos T Middleton (London, UK), Fati Nourhashémi (Toulouse, France)

Editorial Board

Lena Allksten (Stockholm, Sweden),
Joël Belmin (Paris, France),
Trevor Brocklebank (Manchester, UK),
Charles Consel (Bordeaux, France),
Bertrand Fougère (Toulouse, France),
Alan Gilbert (Washington, USA),
Michael Hodin (New York, USA),
Jan-Olov Höög (Stockholm, Sweden),
Zaven Khachaturian (Potomac, USA),

Miia Kivipelto (Stockholm, Sweden & London, UK),
Olivia Leu (London, UK),
Elizabeth Muir (London, UK),
Dan Wieberg Omaha (Nebraska, USA),
Teresa Radebaugh (El Dorado, USA),
Antoni Salva (Barcelona, Spain),
Melek Somai (London, UK),
Eugene T Varughese (Boston, USA),
Hélène Villars (Toulouse, France)

Submit now and be featured at the 2017 EIT Health Summit!

[www.care-weekly.com/
submit-online.html](http://www.care-weekly.com/submit-online.html)

@EITHealth_UKI

[www.eithealth.eu/
clc-united-kingdom-ireland](http://www.eithealth.eu/clc-united-kingdom-ireland)